

College of Medicine Alumni Series

Featuring Former Graduate Students and Postdoctoral Fellows

Nomination Form Proposed 2020 Dates: April 24 or 27

The College of Medicine is pleased to announce a new series that will feature our graduate student and postdoctoral fellow alumni who have demonstrated success and achievement in their career. Travel and accommodation support will be provided.

We are seeking nominations for former graduate and postdoctoral fellow alumni who have the ability to inspire and inform current graduate students. Nominees should be individuals who have made an impact in their chosen career, demonstrated leadership qualities, and brought positive change. We welcome nominations for alumni from all career paths and career stages, not limited to academia or industry. A number of candidates will be selected per year to present with a mandate to provide a diverse perspective on post-graduate success.

Please complete the form below along with a nomination letter for your nominee and a current version of their CV. The nomination letter should confirm general availability around the proposed symposium date. Candidates may self nominate, but may not write their own nomination letter. Adjudication will be done primarily by graduate students and the nomination letters should make clear the potential of the candidates to provide insights into career development.
